

Inclusive Grouping in Schools

Let's make learning fun – and successful!
The Inclusive Grouping in Schools project promotes social inclusion in school communities.

The project aims to:

- ✓ Promote social inclusion in school communities
- ✓ Improve the overall wellbeing of the students via self-expression
- ✓ Prevent students dropping out of school and to further improve their learning results

The objectives are tackled with self-expression classes that are free of charge for the participants and the schools. The classes include a 3X10D self-evaluation survey for the students.

I THINK this is great for everyone, because it does so much good to throw yourself out there. The activities bring playfulness into everybody's lives."

– Feedback from a student

THE SELF-EXPRESSION classes have strengthened the group's co-operation and positively influenced students."

A new, fun – and successful way to learn!

If you are interested in combining social inclusion, youth work and self-expression in your work, why not try self-expression classes as a way to spice up regular school work?

The fresh and easy-going method promotes positivity and inclusion in the classroom, enhances the participation of young people with special needs, and gives tools for teaming new students up with each other.

The self-expression classes include:

- ✓ Encountering other students
- ✓ Opportunity to practise social skills
- ✓ Group activities and grouping
- ✓ Games, workshops
- ✓ Wellbeing

THE GROUPS teamed up, performing was no longer so stressful and there was less anxiety.”

– Feedback from a teacher
